Foreword.

David Haigh
CEO, Brand Finance

What is the purpose of a strong brand: to attract customers, to build loyalty, to motivate staff? All true, but for a commercial brand at least, the first answer must always be 'to make money'.

Huge investments are made in the design, launch, and ongoing promotion of brands. Given their potential financial value, this makes sense. Unfortunately, most organisations fail to go beyond that, missing huge opportunities to effectively make use of what are often their most important assets. Monitoring of brand performance should be the next step, but is often sporadic. Where it does take place, it frequently lacks financial rigour and is heavily reliant on qualitative measures, poorly understood by non-marketers.

As a result, marketing teams struggle to communicate the value of their work and boards then underestimate the significance of their brands to the business. Sceptical finance teams, unconvinced by what they perceive as marketing mumbo jumbo, may fail to agree necessary investments. What marketing spend there is, can end up poorly directed as marketers are left to operate with insufficient financial guidance or accountability. The end result can be a slow but steady downward spiral of poor communication, wasted resources, and a negative impact on the bottom line.

Brand Finance bridges the gap between marketing and finance. Our teams have experience across a wide range of disciplines from market research and visual identity, to tax and accounting. We understand the importance of design, advertising, and marketing, but we also believe that the ultimate and overriding purpose of brands is to make money. That is why we connect brands to the bottom line.

By valuing brands, we provide a mutually intelligible language for marketing and finance teams. Marketers then have the ability to communicate the significance of what they do, and boards can use the information to chart a course that maximises profits. Without knowing the precise, financial value of an asset, how can you know if you are maximising your returns? If you are intending to license a brand, how can you know you are getting a fair price? If you are intending to sell, how do you know what the right time is? How do you decide which brands to discontinue, whether to rebrand and how to arrange your brand architecture? Brand Finance has conducted thousands of brand and branded business valuations to help answer these questions.

Brand Finance's research revealed the compelling link between strong brands and stock market performance. It was found that investing in highly-branded companies would lead to a return almost double that of the average for the S&P 500 as a whole.

Acknowledging and managing a company's intangible assets taps into the hidden value that lies within it. The following report is a first step to understanding more about brands, how to value them and how to use that information to benefit the business.

The team and I look forward to continuing the conversation with you.

World's Top 25 Most Valuable Airport Brands Could Lose up to 20% of Brand Value from COVID-19.

- + Airport sector heavily impacted by COVID-19 pandemic, brands could lose up to 20% of brand value, equating to a US$1.7 billion loss cumulatively
- + Heathrow Airport has retained title of world's most valuable airport brand, despite brand value falling 7%
- + Bangkok Airport is sector's fastest growing, brand value up 24%
- + Hong Kong International Airport is world's strongest airport brand, Brand Strength Index (BSI) score 88.6 out of 100

Executive Summary.

Top 25 airport brands could lose up to $1.7bn from COVID-19

The world’s top 25 most valuable airport brands could lose up to US$1.7 billion worth of brand value as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. Brand Finance’s analysis shows that the airport sector is a heavily impacted industry globally and could face a potential 20% loss in brand value.

Looking beyond the airport sector, the value of the 500 most valuable brands in the world, ranked in the Brand Finance Global 500 2020 league table, could fall by an estimated US$1 trillion as a result of the Coronavirus outbreak.

Brand Finance has assessed the impact of COVID-19 based on the effect of the outbreak on enterprise value, compared to what it was on 1st January 2020. The likely impact on brand value was estimated for each sector. The industries have been classified into three categories – limited impact (minimal brand value loss or potential brand value growth), moderate impact (up to 10% brand value loss), and heavy impact (up to 20% brand value loss) – based on the level of brand value loss observed for each sector in the first quarter of 2020.

Heathrow retains top spot

Heathrow Airport has retained the title of the world’s most valuable airport brand despite recording a 7% brand value decrease to US$853 million. The 7th busiest airport in the world, and Europe’s busiest,

The COVID-19 crisis presents a dangerous threat to airports around the world, which stand to lose 20% of overall brand value and could struggle to cope with ever-decreasing demand in the face of travel restrictions as global aviation reaches a virtual standstill. With the future effectively out of their hands, airports will have to rely on the strength of their brands and their ability to influence key stakeholders such as governments, airlines and investors to recover once the world returns to some form of normality.

Valuation Director

posted flat retail revenue per passenger last year and show signs of slowing long term growth rate.

With plans for the controversial third runway hitting a major obstacle in February this year with the Court of Appeal ruling it illegal due to lack of consideration of the government’s climate commitments, Heathrow has a monumental task ahead to ensure plans are kept alive while also fitting the UK’s climate policy.

Heathrow reported a damaging 85% drop in revenue in Q2 2020, with cargo numbers dropping 30% and passenger numbers down a staggering 96%.

Bangkok Airport soars 24%

Bangkok Airport is the fastest growing brand in this year’s ranking, following a 24% brand value increase to US$260 million, simultaneously jumping 4 spots from 16th to 12th.

Welcoming over 67 million passengers in 2018, Bangkok Airport is the 6th busiest air gateway in Asia. With tourism booming across the nation and in South East Asia, Airports of Thailand has recently approved a second terminal at Suvarnabhumi, as well as further terminal developments and another runway. This US$1.4 billion investment will approximately triple the capacity of the airport.

Hong Kong International is sector's strongest

In addition to measuring overall brand value, Brand Finance also evaluates the relative strength of brands, based on factors such as marketing investment, customer familiarity, staff satisfaction, and corporate reputation. According to these criteria, Hong Kong International Airport (down 3% to US$321 million) is the world's strongest airport brand with a Brand Strength Index (BSI) score of 88.6 out of 100 and a corresponding AAA brand strength rating.

Hong Kong International Airport is committed to its Master Plan 2030, focusing on expansion and development of the airport to ultimately reach its goal of handling an additional 30 million passengers per year. The brand has celebrated better airport utilisation and punctuality rates – both of which are key drivers behind its 2.3 BSI point increase.

The civil unrest that has swept Hong Kong has not only resulted in a sharp decline in travel demand but has directly affected the airport with protestors occupying departure and arrivals halls. This, paired with the turmoil surrounding coronavirus, has impacted both airlines and the airport alike, with capacity significantly cut. As with all airport brands in the ranking, recovery for Hong Kong International depends on how long the COVID-19 crisis engulfs the world, but it seems likely the sector is in for the long haul.

Sector Reputation Analysis.

Benchmarking against the best

Every brand owner will want to compare brand equity against immediate competitors and peers. But broader benchmarking against brands across a range of categories provides a more rounded assessment of brand strength.

This perspective is also important as brand categories converge, with new technologies enabling disruption and brands seeking tactical entry into neighbouring categories, like a trusted supermarket offering financial services.

Brand reputation is relatively straightforward to compare across sectors. This year's global sector rankings from our B2C research are similar to the previous wave, but there is some movement with potential implications for future brand strategy.

Reputation dips slightly overall

On a like-for-like basis, reputation scores are lower this year, but only by a very small margin as the average brand score fell from 6.6 to 6.4 out of 10. Categories where a poor reputation is the default position, such as utilities, telecoms, and banks, have failed to convince customers that they are consumer champions – and the global average score reflects overall feelings towards brands: acceptance and appreciation, but rarely love and devotion.

Autos lead the way

Car brands continue to enjoy strong reputations. The sector also ranks first on other indicators, such as recommendation and word-of-mouth sentiment – people like talking about cars and top brands such as Audi (reputation score 7.5/10) and BMW (7.7) remain sought after. At the top of the car brand pinnacle is where you can see true brand desire, and meanwhile there are few instances of brands with a really poor reputation – most cars nowadays are well-designed and equipped.

Importantly, the category enjoys a good reputation for being innovative – allowing century-old brands to be well-positioned to withstand the enormous disruption in mobility expected in the coming decade.

Sectors Ranked by Reputation

	1 Auto	6.9 _{/10}
	2 Tech	6.8 _{/10}
	3 Apparel	6.6 _{/10}
	4 Restaurants	6.6 _{/10}

	7 Insurance	6.4 _{/10}
	8 Utilities	6.3 _{/10}
	9 Banks	6.1 _{/10}
	10 Telecoms	6.0 _{/10}

Top Sectors per Metric

Metric	Top Sector
Reputation	 AUTO
Quality	 AUTO
Recommendation (NPS)	 RESTAURANTS
Loyalty	 TECH
Innovation	 TECH
Website/App	 TECH
Value for money	 RETAIL
OVERALL STAKEHOLDER EQUITY	 TECH

Tech halo shining less brightly

Consumers continue to hold the tech sector in high regard, even though reputation scores have fallen slightly. In part, any decline may be because issues in the public spotlight are finally impacting the reputation of some industry giants. Reputation scores for Facebook (6.3) and Uber (5.7) are all lower by 0.5 points, and Huawei (6.2) is under the global spotlight.

Nevertheless, brands such as YouTube (7.8), Google (7.7), and Netflix (7.4) continue to enjoy strong reputations and buzz – most brands would love to be in their position.

Retail & Restaurants

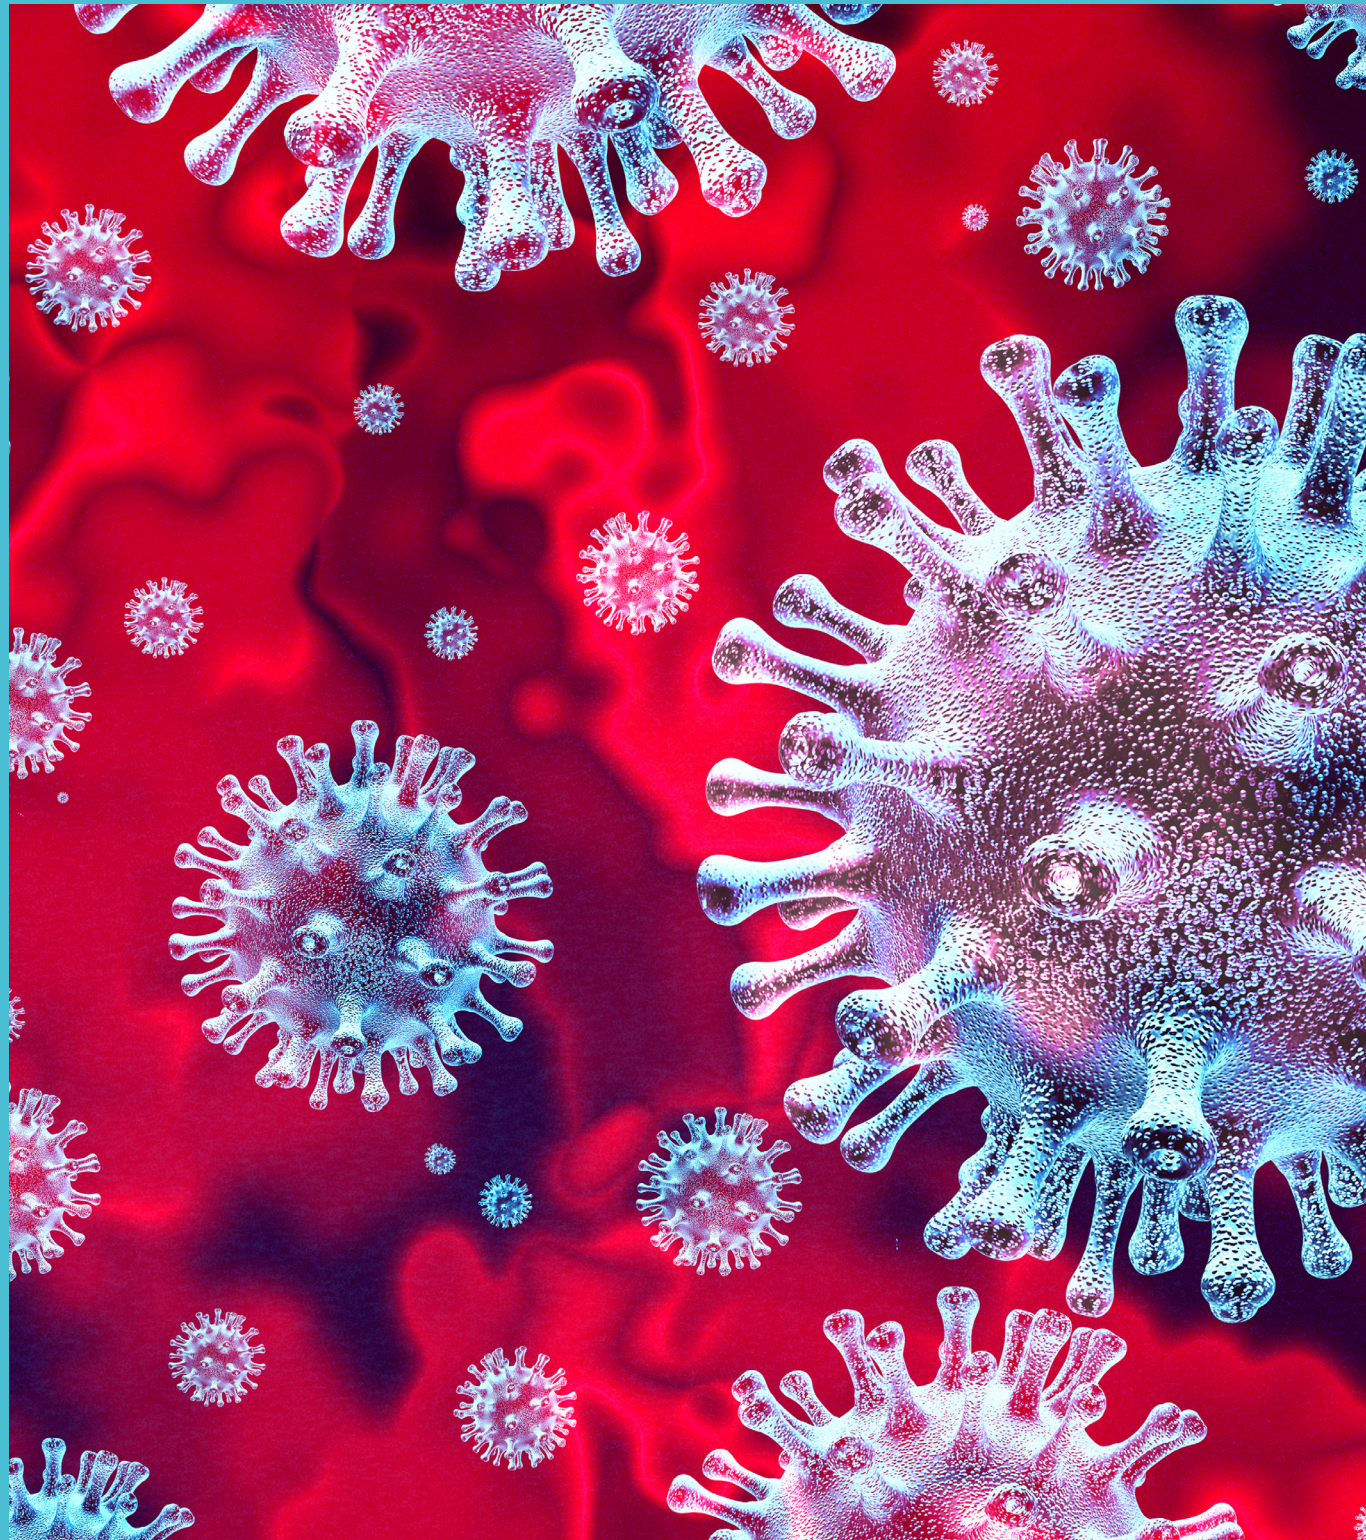

Supermarkets and casual dining brands have moderately positive reputations overall, but these two are category leaders in terms of delivering value for money. Consumers are well aware that brands in these categories are out to make a profit – but unlike for instance banks, the consumer verdict is that brands such as McDonalds (39% 'great value') and Tim Hortons (38%) charge a fair price, though Starbucks (15%) is a notable exception.

Banks still in the red

Banking brands continue to struggle to earn the respect of consumers and are seen as offering poor value for money. However, ratings have generally stabilised – the key challenge is to show growth.

The broader set of scores in our research shows glimmers of opportunity. Banks fare reasonably well on customer service, caring about the community, and for website/app quality. For national and regional banks especially, a community-centred positioning in an age where in many places globalisation is being rejected, may be worth considering.

COVID-19 Global Impact Analysis.

Companies likely to lose up to $1tn in Brand Value as Direct Impact of COVID-19 Outbreak, Effects to be Felt Well into Next Year.

- + Worst hit industries: aviation, oil & gas, tourism & leisure, restaurants, retail
- + Brand Finance has measured levels of business impact categorised by: limited impact, moderate and worst hit
- + International aviation, airlines and airports to be worst affected by Coronavirus outbreak, with measures of social distancing, closure of borders, advice against travel
- + Home delivery apps, online video conferencing platforms, digital media see surge in demand from remote working revolution

Brand Value at Risk

Up to US$1 trillion estimated brand value loss from COVID-19 globally

The brand value of the world’s biggest companies is set to lose an estimated US$1tn as a result of the Coronavirus outbreak, with the aviation sector being the most affected. The 2003 SARS outbreak, which infected about 8,000 people and killed 774, cost the global economy an estimated US$50 billion. As of 5th August 2020, there have been 18,732,471 cases and 705,033 deaths of COVID-19 confirmed worldwide. Global spread has been rapid, with 146 countries now having reported at least one case.

Brand Finance has assessed the impact of COVID-19 on brands based on the effect of the outbreak on enterprise value, compared to what it was on 1st January 2020. The likely impact on brand value was estimated separately for each sector. The industries have been classified into three categories – limited impact (minimal brand value loss or potential brand value growth), moderate impact (up to 10% brand value loss), and heavy impact (up to 20% brand value loss) – based on the level of brand value loss observed for each sector in the first quarter of 2020.

The COVID-19 pandemic is now a major global health threat and its impact on global markets is very real. Worldwide, brands across every sector need to brace themselves for the Coronavirus to massively affect their business activities, supply chain and revenues in a way that eclipses the 2003 SARS outbreak. The effects will be felt well into 2021.

David Haigh,
CEO, Brand Finance

Work from home revolution

Brands offering in-home or remote working solutions have observed an immediate uptick in demand, as multiple Zoom online video conferencing platform prompted huge demand for workable solutions

Food delivery apps Deliveroo and UberEats, now offering contact-free delivery options whereby a food delivery is conveniently left on your doorstep so as not to encourage contact between customer and delivery driver, have also seen a huge surge in demand for their services.

Media and film industry feel effects

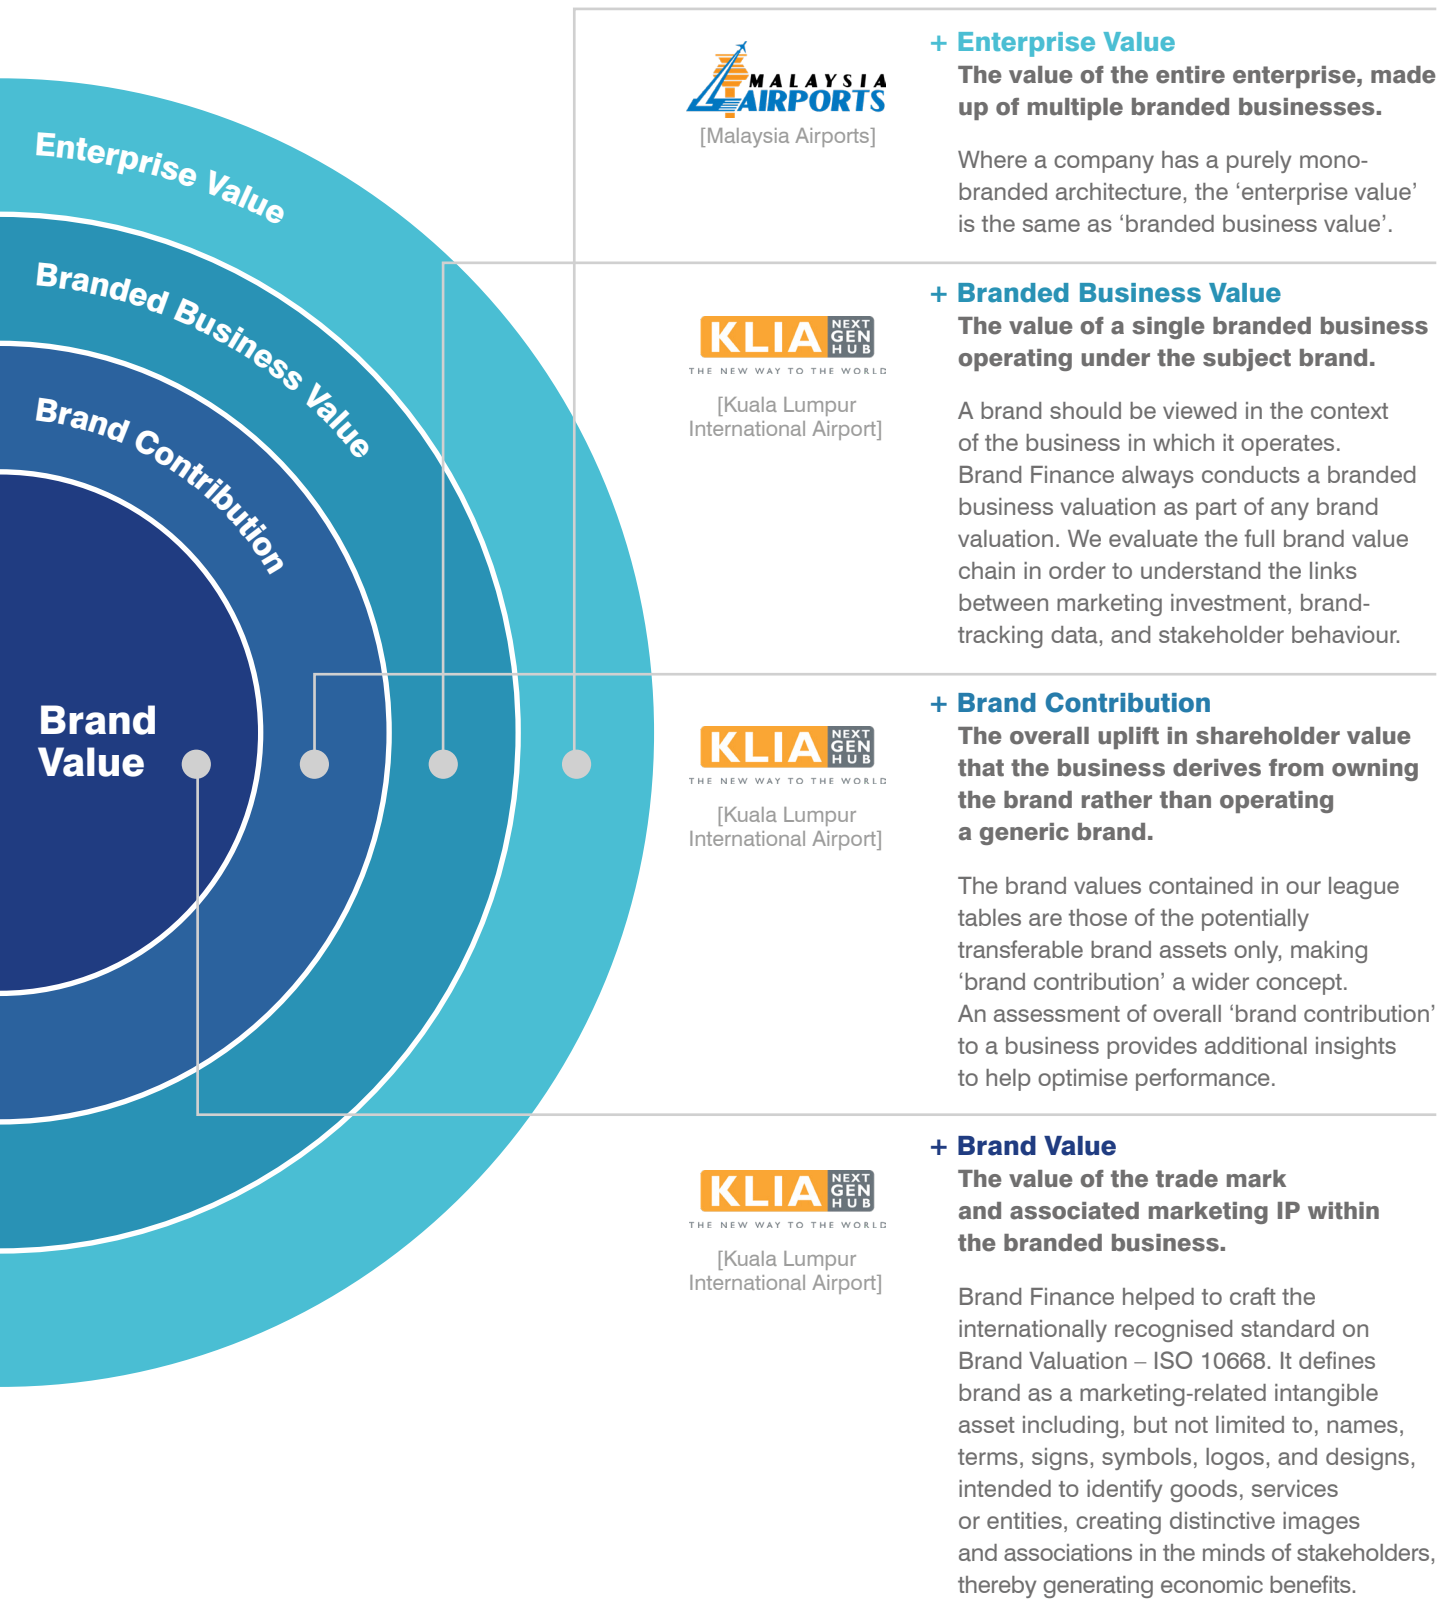

Film production and promotion schedules have been affected by the outbreak, with Disney pushing back the release of its remake of Mulan as well as The New Mutants, part of the X-Men franchise. The effects of social distancing have meant more viewers watching TV, however Netflix has had to suspend production on all scripted series and films in the US and Canada. As massive televised sports events and festivals such as Glastonbury being cancelled, TV executives will be feeling the strain of providing fresh and watchable content.

However it is not all doom and gloom. Some brands will fare better under COVID-19: Amazon, Netflix, WhatsApp, Skype, BBC and BUPA are all booming.

Brand Strength

Brand Strength is the efficacy of a brand's performance on intangible measures, relative to its competitors.

In order to determine the strength of a brand, we look at Marketing Investment, Stakeholder Equity, and the impact of those on Business Performance.

Each brand is assigned a Brand Strength Index (BSI) score out of 100, which feeds into the brand value calculation. Based on the score, each brand is assigned a corresponding rating up to AAA+ in a format similar to a credit rating.

Analysing the three brand strength measures helps inform managers of a brand's potential for future success.

Brand Valuation Methodology.

Brand Finance calculates the values of the brands in its league tables using the Royalty Relief approach – a brand valuation method compliant with the industry standards set in ISO 10668.

This involves estimating the likely future revenues that are attributable to a brand by calculating a royalty rate that would be charged for its use, to arrive at a ‘brand value’ understood as a net economic benefit that a licensor would achieve by licensing the brand in the open market.

The steps in this process are as follows:

- 1 Calculate brand strength using a balanced scorecard of metrics assessing Marketing Investment, Stakeholder Equity, and Business Performance. Brand strength is expressed as a Brand Strength Index (BSI) score on a scale of 0 to 100.
- 2 Determine royalty range for each industry, reflecting the importance of brand to purchasing decisions. In luxury, the maximum percentage is high, in extractive industry, where goods are often commoditised, it is lower. This is done by reviewing comparable licensing agreements sourced from Brand Finance’s extensive database.
- 3 Calculate royalty rate. The BSI score is applied to the royalty range to arrive at a royalty rate. For example, if the royalty range in a sector is 0-5% and a brand has a BSI score of 80 out of 100, then an appropriate royalty rate for the use of this brand in the given sector will be 4%.
- 4 Determine brand-specific revenues by estimating a proportion of parent company revenues attributable to a brand.
- 5 Determine forecast revenues using a function of historic revenues, equity analyst forecasts, and economic growth rates.
- 6 Apply the royalty rate to the forecast revenues to derive brand revenues.
- 7 Brand revenues are discounted post-tax to a net present value which equals the brand value.
